
Global warming will effect perschoolers

Posted by hazephase - 2007/08/08 22:33

Its alway the kids that get the most effected and teh rise in temperatures cause an increase in emergency hospital visits for preschoolers.

A study also found that rates of gastroenteritis were lower on days with a high UV factor present.

The main reasons for hospital visits are fever and gastroenteritis.

Re:Global warming will effect perschoolers

Posted by SingleAgain - 2007/09/30 15:40

Yes, kids of this age are more prone to fevers and suffer faster because of their small size. High temperatures will only increase the effect of fevers and make them more difficult to manage.

This is a shame :S

Re:Global warming will effect perschoolers

Posted by mmk123 - 2008/07/13 04:07

And it's not only the preschoolers, elderly people don't do well in extreme weather conditions, whether it be too hot OR too cold

Re:Global warming will effect perschoolers

Posted by DianaR - 2008/07/14 08:20

Gastroenteritis? How is that related to the temperature outside?

That is usually due to overeating, influenza, or low level food poisoning.

I am confused.
