
what are you doing for down time

Posted by jimmys devoted - 2008/07/13 23:19

Most people know when the weekend comes they have yard work to do, painting, mowing.. their work doesn't stop, not for a moment. No wonder so many have massive heart attacks, get divorced and pretty much have a bucket list as long as a football field. So what do you do for your down time, do you even have down time.

We have come to the conclusion that its our life we live it for us. not for anyone else. So we play. we take day off in the middle of the week to play. we do crafting, play Video games, and do our job.

but we are not letting that stop of from doing what we want. no bucket list.. which leads to another thread

julie

Re:what are you doing for down time

Posted by mscott - 2008/07/16 07:39

We have kids so there really isn't any down time. I spend as much time with them as I can and I don't let other things take priority over my family. I may never be rich, but that is only if you measure rich in just money.
