The link dose not work so you will have to work that out but I got into your site , it looks nice . I like that you have listed all the oils and what they are good for , can you also add more to list ? I would also like if you can show some ways of massaging that will be helpfull for people that give massage at home . I will be coming back to your site so pls update

Yes your site looks ok, however you may have over done it with Google adsense ads.

As far as I know you are only allowed three blocks, and you have four, however you have a nice clean site with lots of info...

hazephase your link does not work either:P

well,

*about the link. i was wrong :S That was my 1st post. Let me try again.

Aromatherapy Guide :)

*hazephase: This is a new site and I'm still working on it. I intend to add more scientific info about the essential oils (single page for the commonly used)and a page with massage tips and videos.

*reiki2: don't know anything about ads blogs, my cousin deals with them :silly:

thanx for your comments

Well both links are working for me and you just need to copy link. I think you should avoid live link in post. Both sites looks as Google Adsense sites because too many ads. However second site have some good infortmations there.

Nice site. Have you thought of using other ways of monetising this such as putting contextual link ads in the text or even going into some sort of affiliate deal?

What sort of UK traffic do you have?

Very sorry about that, that was probably more suited to a Private Message. I will try to keep more strictly to the topic at hand more in future.
